Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone or mail. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on May 18, 2005.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you on the closing date, May 18, 2004.

If you are ever in the area, stop in to see us! Of course, it's best to call first. Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. reserves the right to refuse any ridiculous bids.

6. HADRIAN AND HIS GRAND-NEPHEW PEDANIUS FUSCUS; 117-138 AD, Aureus, Rome, c. 129-31 AD, 7.02g., Calicó-1239a (private coll., same dies), BM-530 pl. 57.13 var. (same obv. die), C-485 (60 Fr.), RIC-204. Obv: HADRIANVS AVGVSTVS Youthful bare head of Pedanius Fuscus (?) r., with curly hair and aegis on shoulders. Rx: COS III P P Emperor in military dress standing l. before three standards, raising r. hand and holding spear in l. Very rare. In an unpublished 1993 die study Ben Damsky found 13 specimens from this obverse die, only two of which showed our exact variant of reverse type, with the emperor extending his right arm in front of two of the standards and holding his spear under his left arm, instead of raising his right arm from the elbow only, not overlapping the standards, and holding the spear away from his body with his left hand only, as on the BM specimen. These two specimens were the Calicó coin cited above, ex Mazzini, Jameson, and John Evans, which reappeared in Triton VII, 2004, 971; and Cahn 80, 1933, 692.
This youthful portrait with curly hair appeared three times on Hadrian's coinage, each time on just one aureus obverse die: first with the obverse legend HADRIANVS AVGVSTVS P P (c. 128-9 AD), then with HADRIANVS AVGVSTVS as on our coin (c. 129-31 AD), and finally with HADRIANVS AVG COS III P P (c. 131-8 AD). It seems possible that the person portrayed is Pedanius Fuscus, Hadrian's grand-nephew, who was accompanying Hadrian on his second provincial tour and was his presumed successor, but who could not yet be actually named on the coins because he had not been adopted and made Caesar. Fuscus was born in 113 so was in his mid to late teens when the aurei in question were struck, matching the apparent age of the youthful portrait. He wears his hair in the same curly style as Aelius Caesar and Marcus Aurelius Caesar on their coins of 137 and 139 on respectively, a style that Hadrian himself is not known to have ever used. The identical portrait is also known from several surviving marble portrait busts, including one found at Hadrian's Villa in Tivoli. Each of the three aureus obverse dies in question occurs with a reverse showing Hadrian's adoptive parents Trajan and Plotina with the legend DIVIS PARENTIBVS, appropriate if the subject of the obverse type too was the imperial succession. These special "dynastic" aurei showing the presumed successor Fuscus but with Hadrian's name could have been intended as gifts to selected recipients on some special occasion, for example Fuscus' birthday or New Year's Day.

The ancient historians only mention that Fuscus was executed, along with his grandfather Servianus who was married to Hadrian's sister, because he resented Hadrian's adoption of Aelius Caesar in 136 and had been encouraged by omens to hope that he himself would become emperor. More information about him, however, can be derived from an ancient discussion of his horoscope; from an Arabic source stating that Hadrian's cousin was present when Hadrian interviewed the silent philosopher Secundus in Athens, presumably during one of Hadrian's last two visits to that city in 128-9 and 131-2 AD; and from a statue base of Fuscus erected by his lictor at Ephesus, probably during Hadrian's visit there in 129. The importance of Fuscus' family may be judged from the fact that his father was joint consul with Hadrian in the first ordinary consulship of the reign, 118 AD, and that his grandfather, apart from being married to Hadrian's sister, reached the eminence of a third consulship in 134 AD. For a full discussion of these matters, see E. Champlin, Hadrian's Heir, ZPE 21, 1976, pp. 79-89.

The identification of the youthful portrait on these three aureus dies of Hadrian as possibly Pedanius Fuscus is an unpublished idea of C. Clay's. P.V. Hill in contrast has suggested that these aurei might show a youthful or idealized Hadrian and have been struck posthumously by Antoninus Pius in 138 during his dispute with the Senate over Hadrian's deification: see Hill's article Abnormal Hadrianic Portraits, Spink's Numismatic Circular, July-August 1966, pp. 177-80; and his book The Undated Coins of Rome, AD 98-148, London 1970, pp. 78-9. Hill's idea, following a suggestion of Mattingly's in BMC IV, p. cxvii, has been adopted by David Sear in his new Roman Coins and Their Values II, London 2002, pp. 263-4. This hypothesis is conclusively refuted, however, by the occurrence of one of these dynastic aurei in the Erla Hoard of 1966, which obviously closed in the 130's before Hadrian's death, since it contained no coins of Aelius Caesar or Antoninus Caesar and only a few of the common denarius types of Hadrian's last great issue with obverse legend HADRIANVS AVGVSTVS P P and HADRIANVS AVGVSTVS, for his supposed posthumous issue of 138. Why not use Hadrian's latest obverse

60.	SICILY, MESSANA ; Tetradrachm, 410-405 BC, 17.41g., Jameson-649 (same dies), Caltabiano-493 (D201/R201). Obv: Charioteer driving slow mule biga right, above Nike flying right to crown mules, laurel leaf and berry in exergue, Rx: [M]ΕΞ-Σ-A-N-IO-N, hare leaping right above dolphin leaping left. Caltabiano dated her Series XIII, to which this coin belongs, to the years ca. 425-421 BC. Her study was reviewed by C. Boehringer in SNR 78 (1999), pp. 171-190. Boehringer noted an obverse die link between Series XIII and Series XV, dated 412-408 BC. After reviewing the relevant hoard evidence, he proposed markedly lower dates for Series XII-XV. 61.	SICILY, SYRACUSE ; Tetradrachm, c. 472-466/5 BC, 17.11g., Boehringer-195 (P87/R134). Obv: Charioteer driving slow quadriga right; above, Nike flying right to crown horses, Rx: ΣVPA-KOΣ-IO-N, head of Arethusa right, wearing pearl necklace and pearl diadem, beaded hair tied in queue at back of neck, four dolphins. Exquisite large archaic head of Arethusa with tightly braided hair which drops down to the base of the neck and is adorned with pearls in the center and tied at the end. The head of Arethusa is a wonderful example of archaic Greek art. Die breaks and some weak striking on obverse. This is the second time that we have owned this coin. It is so beautiful that we couldn't help repurchasing it, especially since so few high-grade coins from Sicily are currently available. About EF/Near Mint State..... 4000
62.	SICILY, SYRACUSE ; Tetradrachm, 410-405 BC, 15.24g., Tudeer-58 (9 spec.). Signed die "EUCLEIDAS". Obv: Fast quadriga driven by Persephone crowned by Nike; wheat ear in exergue, Rx: Facing Athena wearing triple crested helmet ornamented with vines and palmettes; above visor [EVKAEIΔA]; hair in thick curly masses. This facing Athena is one of the most important and desirable types in the entire Syracusan series. Tudeer recorded only nine examples from this signed die; he records three examples from a second unsigned die (Tudeer 59) which exhibits a massive die break across the face of Athena. This piece is slightly light in weight because a finder cut a piece off the edge at 1:00, most likely to see what metal the coin was before it was cleaned. Though the signature is no longer visible, all the details of the type including all the facial features and the details of the helmet and hair are prominent. A similar example to this coin brought 43,000 SFr at Leu 1976. Examples of this die in EF have brought as much as 400,000 SFr. This coin represents an opportunity for a collector to purchase a pleasant example of a coin that would normally be financially unobtainable for many. VG/Fine 18750

Rare mule, combining an obverse legend that was superseded c. mid-June 217 with a reverse type that was only introduced c. late July, six weeks later. All regular coins of Diadumenian with this reverse type include the name Antoninus in his obverse legend; our mule erroneously omits Antoninus. In 1979 C. Clay could name only three specimens of this mule, namely that recorded by Cohen, one in the Reka Devnia hoard, and Kress 142, 1968, 570. About five additional specimens have emerged since then. Rx: FIDES MILITVM Three standards, the middle one topped by eagle, without shields at their bases. Very rare variant without shields at the bases of the standards, possibly occurring on only this one reverse die. A second specimen in Berk stock, one in C. Clay collection, one in Eauze Hoard (pl. 20, 303), and one in Berk photofile (M&M List 354, March 1974, 31), are all from the same reverse die as the present specimen. Not in BM by 1975, apparently none in Reka Devnia hoard, since it must be a mistake that the hoard publication reports 31 specimens of this variant (C-43) but no specimens at all of the common variant with shields (C-44)! Most, if not all, of these 31 specimens must in fact have had shields by the standards. Near Mint State.....	350	282. RIC-33 lists this reverse type at Siscia only for Diocletian (eight-turreted camp) and Maximian (six-turreted camp, as on our coin), but not for Constantius. The coin might also be attributed to Rome, but there too it would be unpublished: RIC-11a of Constantius has obverse legend ending only CAES, not CAESAR as on our coin. Draped bust of Constantinopolis r., seen from front, wearing pearl diadem with semicircular extension above ear and ties at back, and pearl necklace. Rx: Large letter K. Fine border of dots on both sides. The portrait on this rare coin has been identified as Fausta (Cohen, Fausta-23), Helena (D. Vagi, Coinage and History II, no. 3052), Theodora (Triton VIII, 2005, 1251), or Constantine II (Cohen, Constantine II-287), but the Greek K on reverse should indicate that she is instead the personification of Constantinopolis. The only other letter found on the early coins of this sort is the Greek rho for Roma, coupled with a helmeted bust of Roma on the obverse. And indeed, as Bendall points out, a portrait exactly like that on our coin, including the unexplained semicircular addition to the pearl diadem, is actually labeled CONSTANTINOPOLIS on an anonymous bronze coin, RIC VIII pl. 9, 106, which on Bendall's suggestion should also be attributed to the mint of Constantinopolis and dated to the celebratory issue for the city's dedication in 330 AD. Aside from the usual images of Constantinopolis wearing a crown or towers or a helmet, a figure of Constantinopolis seated, with her hair visible as on our coin and possibly also wearing a diadem, appears on

Our coin is from obverse die 275 in Colin Kraay's unpublished Oxford dissertation on the bronze coinage of AD 68-81, and a new reverse die, unknown to Kraay. Both dies are unusual for legend arrangement. The obverse die is the only one of several hundred sestetius obverse dies of 71 AD to show a slight break in the legend above head, AV-G. The reverse die shows a new placement of S C, in field and with S to right of rudder. Kraay catalogues 22 reverse dies of this type, 16 with S C in exergue (so on the BM and Paris specimens), and six with S C in field but S always to left not right of rudder. Very rare large silver medallion with ornate half-length portrait that apparently occurs on this one obverse die only. Gnechchi catalogues two silver specimens of this medallion, in BM and Trento. Our piece has dark brown patination, but at spots where the patina has rubbed off, for example on the legs of the Monetæ on left and right on reverse, one can see that the metal below is silver. A coin from the same dies as ours but described as bronze, Muenzhandlung Basel 3, 1935, Prince Waldeck 895 = Goebel 313a pl. 29, is perhaps also really silver with dark patination. The same may apply to the Paris specimen which seems to be from the same obverse die and is described as bronze by Cohen 12 (with illustration). That would make a total of four specimens of this medallion, all in silver, with ours being the fifth. Much better preserved than the specimens in the excellent collection of the Franciscan Biblical Institute in Jerusalem, published by Spijkerman. Our specimen is also very interesting for the figure in the temple pediment and the drapery swath above her. The numerous specimens of the same reverse type published by Spijkerman, with obverses of Septimius Severus, Julia Domna, and Geta as well as Caracalla, all seem to show just a pellet in the pediment, without drapery on the apex. Rx: BIZVHN / ΩN in exergue, Man reclining l. on couch, placing his r. hand on the shoulder of woman, who is seated on the edge of the couch, in front of him; beneath the man, a tripod; beneath the woman, a staff with serpent twined around it. To the l. of the central group, a tree, on which hangs a cuirass, and beneath which stands a man clad in short chiton, and placing his r. hand in amphora; to the r. of the group, the forepart of a horse pacing l.; above group, an oval shield. This elaborate reverse type, which had already appeared on coins of Bizya under Hadrian and Marcus Aurelius as Caesar (Jurukova 8 and 18), shares many elements with depictions of the Meal of the Dead on tombstones (Jurukova, pp. 18-9). The beard and hair on the obverse and some details on reverse have been strengthened by tooling. EF

387. AKKADIAN HEMATITE CYLINDER SEAL, ca. 1800-1600 B.C. Two gods; each with an attendant. There is a two line inscription and a one line secondary inscription, "Ama and Shamsh" (The names of the two gods depicted). H. 7/8" 1700
388. OLD BABYLONIAN DARK GREEN MARBLE CYLINDER SEAL, ca. 1800 B.C. Three human figures in a presentation scene. Carved with precision and clarity. Some incrustation. H. 11/8" 1800
389. SUMERIAN WHITE MARBLE CYLINDER SEAL, ca. 2300 B.C. This seal depicts heroes engaged in combat with a bull-like mythological being and a lion. General erosion to the surface of the cylinder and iron oxide staining. H. 1 1/4" 700
390. PHOENICIAN STEATITE STAMP SEAL, ca. 1000 B.C. This piece is carved into a cylindrical shape with a pointed top. The underside is carved with an eagle. W. 1/2" 300
391. A LARGER SUMERIAN MARBLE HEAD BEAD, Early Dynastic Period, ca. 2500 B.C. The bead depicts the classic Sumerian face with large deeply drilled eyes for inlay with the typically large Sumerian nose, all sculpted out of white marble and drilled centrally for suspension. A classic piece of Sumerian art and much larger than the standard face bead. Large chip to the bottom. H. 3/4" W. 7/8" 1250
392. MESOPOTAMIAN COPPER ALLOY STANDING NUDE GODDESS, ca. 2400 B.C. This copper alloy figure represents a fertility goddess. Rendered nude, except for a belt, bracelets and a torc, her left arm falls to the side, the right rests on her stomach. She has large thick-rimmed hollow eyes, possibly for an inlay, a large wedge-shaped nose and a head hollowed on the top, most likely for an attached piece now lost. The figure's general body shape with very broad shoulders and dramatically wide hips that taper to narrow legs very closely parallels the piece found in Mari and cited in Art of the First Cities: The Third Millennium B.C. from the Mediterranean to the Indus, by Joan Aruz and Ronald Wallenfels, p. 142, number 82. One leg missing. Brown patination with green and reddish tones. This is an extremely rare piece. Mounted. H. 4 1/4" 25000
393. SUMERIAN CALCITE FOUR HEADED BULL AMULET, ca. Beginning of the 3rd Millennium B.C. The amulet is carved out of a brown banded calcite and biconically drilled in a central square section from which radiate four heads of bulls. Diameter 1 1/4" 675
394. MESOPOTAMIAN BONE TORSO OF A MOTHER GODDESS, ca. 2000 B.C. The goddess, shown holding her breasts, is modeled with a narrow upper chest and very wide flaring hips with incised lines representing the belly. The piece has been broken and reglued. H. 2 3/4" 1250
395. BACTRIAN LAVENDER CHALCEDONY PLATE, ca. first half of the second millennium B.C. This beautifully balanced plate has a wide flat rim surrounding the shallow bowl. The plate was carved out of a beautiful piece of lavender chalcedony with black mottles and white streaks. Light overall surface encrustation. A magnificent piece in a much desired semi-precious stone. Extremely rare. Dia. 5 3/4" 4500
396. SYRO-PHOENICIAN BLUE AND WHITE FAIENCE MASK, ca. 1200 B.C. An extremely rare Phoenician faience mask inlay illustrating a strong Egyptian stylistic influence. The face and the neck are molded in white faience with the brow line the eyes and the neck line inlaid in blue faience. This piece was most likely an inset for a larger wooden deity. Excellent condition with earthen incrustation. H. 1 7/8" W. 1 5/8" 1850
397. CANNANITE BRONZE DOUBLE IDOL, ca. Middle of the 2nd Millennium B.C. The two figures are shown standing together, joined at their arms and holding their other arms outward, standing on the head of a lion. They have the typically modeled pointed face of very early Canaanite. Generally green and olive patination with porosity. H. 2 3/8" 825
398. LURISTAN BRONZE FIGURE OF A GODDESS, ca. 8th cent. B.C. The nude idol rendered in a slender form with a collar and a belt, clasps her breasts in the fashion of Near Eastern fertility figures. Her face is modeled with a long wedge shaped nose, circular eyes and strong brows. Luristan female idols with such strong feminine characteristics are accessibly rare. Red and green patination. Mounted on a wood base. H. 5 5/8" 4500

399. EGYPTIAN TERRACOTTA CONCUBINE WITH BABIES, 17th Dynasty, ca. 1650-1567 B.C. A magnificent testimony to the sacrifice of motherhood. Her facial features peeking out from between the two clinging babies wrapped around her head. Her breasts protrude below. Probably ancient humor relating to clinging children smothering their mothers with responsibility and work never-ending. Mounted on a lucite stand. H. 1 3/4" W. 1 1/4".....2100
400. TERRACOTTA LOWER HALF OF A CONCUBINE FIGURE, 17th Dynasty, ca. 1650-1567 B.C. A terracotta concubine representing regeneration. Lower torso and legs. A decorative belt is slung low on the hips and features an incised line and dot pattern. Her navel is encircled with dots, as are (on the reverse) two circular impressions on either side of her lower spine. Her hands remain at her sides. Mounted on a lucite base. H. 3 1/4" 1200
401. SCHIST BUST OF ISIS, New Kingdom, ca.1567-1085 B.C. Isis is rendered with fine, realistic facial features, looking steadily forward. Rendered in schist, this beautiful image was once part of a grouping of three gods. Though parted from Osiris and Horus, the fragment which remains is flawless. Mounted on a metal stand. H. 2" W. 2" 3500
402. BRIGHT BLUE FAIENCE RING, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. This simple faience ring was manufactured by wrapping faience paste around a tube and slicing the paste into thin rings. Undoubtedly mass-produced, this ring has lost none of its original bright blue color, which was an inexpensive substitute for turquoise or lapis. Dia. 3/4" Ring size 3..... 375
403. SMALL WHITE GLASS FECUNDITY FIGURE, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. This figure of a nude female, with arms at her sides and her legs pressed together, resembles the so-called "concubine" figures. Although such figures were originally thought to be concubines for the deceased man's afterlife pleasure, their presence in female tombs, together with the fact that the figures sometimes hold infants, indicates rather that the figures had broader regenerative associations and were intended to benefit the deceased's resurrection in the afterlife. H. 1" 450
404. DARK RED FAIENCE LOTUS BLOSSOM, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. Drilled through the calyx, the flower is shown open, with three sepals rising from a ribbed calyx to frame a cluster of petals. Floral jewelry elements such as this one may also have had amuletic significance, since, to the Egyptians, the repeated opening and closing of the flower in the diurnal cycle of life represented regeneration and rebirth. Excellent style and condition. Rare color. L. 5/8" 550
405. LIMESTONE OSTRACON (STONE FLAKE WITH A HEAD-SHAVING SCENE), New Kingdom, ca. 1550-1069 B.C. A comment concerning the function of chapels for worship in the village of Deir el-Medina and the function of lay priesthood follows from the book Pharaoh's Workers: "The workmen themselves engaged in the simple priestly activities documented; the villagers probably had no professional clergy, though some chapels had attached chambers or guard houses. Serving as priests for the processions they conducted ones, though the titles of "lector", "fan bearer" and "bak" (servant) are also known. From: Pharaoh's Workers, the Villagers of Deir el-Medina, Leonard H. Lesko, Editor. Cornell University Press 1994, page 90-93. A scene from everyday life is depicted here, where the seated figure, wearing a red shoulder-strap and attached garment typical of the New Kingdom, is attended by another figure, grasping a red razor in his left hand and steadying the attendee's head in his right. This standing figure with a delicately rendered face, is garbed in a tight-fitting kilt-loincloth and red belt, his right foot braced against the attendee's folded knees. Likely represents part of the preparation to attend service in temple ritual required of priests--though Ancient Egyptians regularly opted for shaving for practical cleanliness and hygiene in general. These stone flake drawings were created by tomb artists in an impromptu fashion upon stone flakes produced during the quarrying of tombs and inspired by events seen or remembered in their daily lives. A relevant scene of daily life at the apex of the Egyptian epoch. Probably from the Theban area, village of Deir el-Medina. H. 5 5/8" 12500
406. LIMESTONE RELIEF, New Kingdom, Amarna, ca. 1379-1326 B.C. From el-Amarna. Carved with the bust of an Akhenaten-like portrait of a male above a bunch of alternate lotus flowers and buds, three rosettes below, and a multiple bouquet above. This image symbolizes morning and rebirth, a part of the Egyptian cycle of life. Purchased from the dealer Mr.Tano in Cairo in the early 1960's. H. 8" W. 5 1/2" 17500
407. CALCITE RAM FRAGMENT WITH AMUN GLYPH, Third Intermediate Period, ca. 1070-715 B.C. The ram was a sacred animal representing fertility and procreation powers to the ancient Egyptians. The native species, Ovis Longipes Paleoaegypticus, was cultivated and worshipped in the earliest settlements and towns of the Pre-dynastic era. Characterized by its horizontally extended curling or undulating horns, this early type was the symbol of the creator-god Khnum, worshipped at Esna and on Elephantine Island. Another type of ram, introduced from Western Asia during the Middle Kingdom (2040-1784 B.C.), paleoatlanticus, eventually supplanted the native species. This later type bears horns that curve inwards, and became the regularly depicted form of this sacred animal in statuary and amuletic figures depicting a number of gods from the New Kingdom (1550-1070 B.C.) onwards. However, the horns of the earlier type were still used iconographically, sometimes in contexts with both types of horns layered together. In later times, popular animal cults prompted the founding of large cemeteries to receive the mummified bodies of sacred rams, often regarded in their own towns with the same attributes and sacred status afforded the Apis Bull of Memphis. The Ram of Mendes, for example, was believed to possess oracular powers, and was a sole, chosen representative of the local god, while in other locales, whole flocks of sacred rams were maintained in temple complexes. One of the most powerful associations of the ram within the religious experiences of the ancient Egyptians was the connection to Amun-Re, depicted in the avenue of criosphinxes leading to the entrance to Karnak Temple. Carvings of the sacred ram decorated the prow and stern of Amun's sacred barque, and private stelae expressing personal devotion to "the goodly ram" attest to this sacred animal's popularity. This portion of a carved depiction of the sacred ram as a manifestation of Amun may be a decorative detail from temple architecture, part of a private worship shrine, or a larger amuletic or votive figure. Aside from the animal's downward-curving horns rendered close to the face, short "beard," and long, plaited headdress, a few glyphs are apparent, below the edge of a section of cavetto-cornice, to help to prove the identity and locational origin of the figure. Although fragmentary, the glyphs reveal the name Amun-Re, even though the initial character, a reed-leaf glyph, has been partly lost. This figure is likely, therefore, to have come from the Theban area, in Southern Egypt. The ram's features are sensitively rendered, and exhibit good proportions and fine details. Carved of a glossy calcite, the figure represents an interesting and rare type of composition, with ram-headed figure resting upon a shrine-cornice, upon a hieroglyphic band. Mounted. H. 4 1/8" 1150

408. LARGE EARLY BRONZE FIGURE OF OSIRIS, 21st to 22nd Dynasty, ca. 1075-716 B.C. Osiris wears a close fitting cloak and stands mummiform holding a crook, which symbolizes rule, and an ankh, which is the symbol through which the god confers eternal life. He wears the Atef crown of Upper Egypt. His facial features and beard are finely incised and he has an engraved beaded pattern across his chest, upper torso and back. This is a very interesting transitional type between the more experimental iconography of the 21st and 22nd Dynasty bronzes of Osiris and those of the Late Period generally. The standard Osiris stands mummiform holding a crook and flail whereas a variant of the earlier Osiris' usually hold a was scepter and an ankh. This one seems to combine both elements by holding the crook of the later Osiris statues and the ankh of more archaic versions. Chocolate patination with red and green mottling and incrustation. Foot broken off. This is an extremely large and archaic Egyptian bronze, the vast majority of Egyptian bronzes come from several hundred years later. Mounted. H. 10 1/4" 8500
409. LIGHT GREEN FAIENCE USHABTI, Third Intermediate Period, ca. 1070-712 B.C. Pale green in color, mummiform figure clutching a hoe in each hand. This is a very substantial and well-modeled ushabti with strong relief features for the period. Thus a nice contrast to most poorly modeled Third Intermediate period ushabtis. Translation: "The Osiris, Pa-sheri-en-aset, Pa-sheri-en-ptah, and Pa-sheri-en-ta-ihe. These commonly attested names mean, respectively, "The child of Isis," "The child of Mut," "The child of Ptah," and "The child of the stable." Mounted. H. 5 1/2" 1800
410. A RARE LARGE GREEN FAIENCE BES STATUE, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. The bandy-legged dwarf god stands with a squat body, his hands on hips. The deity is nude except for his beaded collar necklace and tall ostrich plume headdress. In spite of his grotesque and ferocious appearance, Bes was a popular deity, favored as a protector of the family, childbirth and associated with sexuality itself. This is an unusually large effigy of Bes in wonderful condition with beautiful light apple green faience and iron oxide staining. Very rare in this size and condition. H. 2 7/8" 6500
411. WOODEN CONCUBINE FIGURE, Late Period, ca. 712-30 B.C. This piece represents female reproductive power. It is believed that the purpose of this type was to symbolize or reinforce the sexual aspects of regeneration and rebirth. She wears a bag wig with arms and breasts missing. Encrustation on underside, mounted on custom base. H. 8 3/4" 1850
412. BLACK SCHIST TORSO OF A PRIEST, Late Period, ca. 712-30 B.C. Ancient Egyptian priests, not necessarily religious figures as we now know them, had responsibilities ranging from acting as temple attendants to performing rites and naming holidays and ceremonies. This sculpture represents the figure of a priest with unusually long arms. While hard stone figures such as this one are not

- extremely rare, they are becoming increasingly difficult to find and are highly desirable and impressive pieces of ancient Egyptian art. Mounted. H. 5" 2500
413. EXTRAORDINARILY FINE PALE BLUE-GREEN FAIENCE DJED-PILLAR, Late Period, probably Saite, ca. 715-330 B.C. Extraordinarily fine and large pale blue-green faience djed-pillar. Although the djed-pillar is attested from earliest times, exactly what it represents is uncertain. It may be a stylized tree trunk with the branches chopped off, or it may represent the four pillars that support the sky superimposed upon one another. Ultimately the djed-pillar was considered to represent Osiris' backbone. As a hieroglyph, djed meant "stability," and this amulet therefore imbued its owner with stability and endurance. Chapter 155 of the Book of the Dead prescribes placement of a djed-pillar amulet at the throat of the mummy, to transform the deceased into an "equipped spirit" in the entourage of Osiris. Drilled crosswise through the middle, this amulet would have been sewn onto the bandages of a mummy, either at the throat or elsewhere on the torso. L. 2" 1350
414. LARGE LIMESTONE HAND AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This hand amulet depicts an outstretched palm and wrist. The fingernails, knuckles, and palm lines are all carefully indicated. The function of hand amulets was to ensure that the deceased would have dexterity and the power of manual activity in the Afterlife, and to this end they were placed at the wrist of the corpse during mummification. The square loop at the amulet's wrist end allowed it to be stitched to the mummy bandages. L. 2" 825
415. DEEP BLUE FAIENCE BABOON, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Of very lightweight faience, this baboon is shown squatting on an ovoid base, with its hands in front of its stomach. The strong brow, eyes, nose, ruff, fingers, and toes are all carefully modeled. A lunar disk was originally atop the baboon's head, but is now broken off. The back pillar is inscribed (upside-down) with the names of the owner and his mother; the crude hieroglyphs may be read "Irtify, born of Nes-ta-rekhyet." As an amulet, the baboon would have guaranteed its owner rebirth and renewed life, for the baboon was associated with the newly reborn sun at dawn and was also a symbol of sexual vigor. H. 1 1/2" 750
416. A LARGER EGYPTIAN FAIENCE PAPYRUS AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Shaped in the round, this amulet represents a papyrus plant with a characteristically swelling stalk and flowering umbel. The original bright blue-green color has faded to a pale blue. As the hieroglyph wadj, the papyrus plant meant "fresh" as well as "green." To the Egyptians, the green of fresh vegetation symbolized new life and, by extension, regeneration, resurrection and rebirth. Chapters 159-160 of the Book of the Dead prescribed placement of the amulet at the throat of a mummy, to ensure that the body of the deceased would stay fresh and whole. A suspension loop at the top of the amulet permitted sewing onto mummy bandages. L. 2" 450
417. A SUPERB EGYPTIAN BLUE GRAY FAIENCE BABOON AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Of bluish-green faience, the baboon is shown seated, with its elbows propped on its knees, holding its chin in its hands. The heavy brow, eyes, long nose, ruff, ears and mouth are all exquisitely modeled. The piece is drilled from the top to bottom, to permit stringing for use as an amulet or as part of a larger jewelry ensemble. The baboon was an animal manifestation of Thoth but was also closely associated with the sun god Re, for it becomes agitated and shrieks loudly just before sunrise. As an amulet, the baboon would have linked its owner with rebirth and renewed life in the company of the newly risen sun. H. 3/4" 800
418. BRONZE COBRA SARCOPHAGUS, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This hollow bronze sarcophagus has an opening at one end, for insertion of a mummified cobra. Although, while modeled as a sarcophagus, in practice, many sarcophagi are too small for the actual insertion of a mummified animal. The top of the coffin is adorned with a rearing cobra serpent, supported behind its open hood by means of a small bronze prop. The cobra's body undulates back towards the rear end of the piece, where it merges with a bronze loop, whose purpose may have been to fix the sarcophagus within a shrine. The cobra was sacred to a number of goddesses including Wadjet, Nekhbet, Bastet, Hathor, Isis, Mut, and Renenutet. The cobra also symbolized resurrection, because it sloughed its skin. Light green patina with light black and reddish highlights. Completely intact. L. 1 1/2"H. 1 1/4" 900
419. BRONZE CAT AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Shown seated, with its front paws together and its tail curled around one side of the body on the ground. The eyes, ear, and the differentiation of the legs are all carefully indicated. Large loop attached to the back for suspension on a string or necklace. Since the female cat was particularly noted for its fecundity, this amulet may have enhanced its owner's fertility. The piece is very nicely modeled for its small size. Heavy green patina, one ear missing. H. 7/8" 550
420. GREEN-GLAZED FAIENCE PATAIKOS, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. The word pataikos derives from the Greek writer Herodotus' description of the protective dwarf figures with which the Phoenicians adorned the prows of their triremes. Depicting a naked dwarf with close-shaved hair, bowed legs, rounded belly, and arms akimbo, the Egyptian pataikos was protective and functioned apotropaically, warding off danger and negative forces. In both form and function, the pataikos shows close affinities with Bes, the bow-legged dwarf god who ward off the malevolent forces of chaos during childbirth. This particular example has a scarab atop its head and a suspension loop at the back, which permitted stringing. Chip to faience surface on head. H. 1 1/2" 325
421. FRIIT SPACER WITH IMAGES OF HAPY AND DUAMUTEF, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This frit plaque is decorated on either side with images of Hapy and Duamutef, two of the four sons of Horus whose duty it was to protect the internal organs of the deceased. Each is shown as an animal-headed mummy, standing on the plinth, with hands emerging from the wrappings to grasp a scepter or a folded-cloth amulet of protection. The fact that this plaque has four crosswise drill-holes indicates that it was strung across four strings of beads, probably along with other similar spacers, as part of an elaborate net or shroud that was spread across the torso of a mummy. H. 1 1/8" 350
422. DELICATELY MODELED EGYPTIAN ALABASTER ALABASTRON, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. This alabaster vessel was manufactured in two pieces: a long, tapering body hollowed out to extraordinary thinness, fitted with a narrow neck. Original alabaster stopper has been lost. The long tapering body has two nub handles near the top. This vessel may have contained oils or perfumes, which were poured, or perhaps other substances that were removed by means of an applicator stick. H. 5 1/2" 725
423. BRONZE FIGURE OF THE SEATED ISIS AND THE BABY HORUS, Late Period, ca. 715-330 B.C. Isis is shown seated, wearing a tripartite wig, uraeus, cow's horn with solar disk, a broad collar and tight-fitting dress. With her right hand, she holds her left breast out to the infant Horus, shown naked with the "side lock of youth" and wearing the Double Crown of Upper and Lower Egypt, and supported within a small portable shrine. Very nicely modeled for a smaller piece. H. 3 1/2" 700
424. FAIENCE USHABTI, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. Pale green faience ushabti, with two lines of inscription (reading first horizontally and then continuing vertically down the front). Translation: "Illuminate the Osiris Hor-pe(n)-aset, born of Aset-sheshen." The name "Hor-pen-aset" means "Horus. The one of Isis" and "Aset-Sheshen" can be translated as "The Isis lotus". H. 4 3/8" 650
425. FAIENCE USHABTI OF HERU-ANKH, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. A beautifully preserved turquoise glaze ushabti of Heru-anekh. It is inscribed "May he be illuminated, the Osiris, beloved son, prophet of Anubis, a true soul, or servant, Heru-anekh, born of Imy-pet, the true of voice." Heru-anekh may be translated, 'Horus lives!' and Imy-pet may be translated, 'She who is in heaven'. It holds a seed bag and hoe. Mounted on a black metal base. H. 4 3/4" 2000
426. AMMUT (DEVOURER OF THE DEAD), Late Period, ca. 664-330 B.C. Limestone relief fragment with the complete head of Ammut in sunken relief. Ammut dwelt in the netherworld. She had the head of a crocodile, the torso of a lion, and the bottom half of a hippopotamus. In the Book of the Dead, Ammut awaits beside the scales of justice where the hearts of the dead are weighed against the feather of truth, or Maat. She devoured the hearts of those whose evil deeds made them unfit to enter the afterlife, thereby condemning them to annihilation and earning her name "devourer of the dead." Representations of Ammut in stone are extremely rare. Mounted on base. H. 3 1/2" W. 5 7/8" 8500
427. BONE LION HEAD, Ptolemaic Period, ca. 300-30 B.C. Sculpted of actual lion bone, this lion's head is rendered with skill. The facial features are modeled to create a powerful yet calm expression. Broken and repaired with no loss. A rare piece. W. 2 1/2" L. 2 5/8" 1700
428. HELLENISTIC BRONZE APPLIQUÉ OF A TRITON, Hellenistic, Alexandrian School, ca. 51-31 B.C. This magnificent sculpture stands on his fish legs and holds a rudder in one hand the other which is extended but broken would have held a horn, glossy green patina. The triton is a half man, the top half, and half fish, with two fish tails instead of legs. He is the son of Poseidon and Amphitrite. He lived with his father and mother in a golden palace at the bottom of the sea, and was known to have carried a trumpet made of a conch shell. This trumpet was blown at the command of Poseidon to soothe the restless sea. Extremely significant pedigree. Mounted on a marble base. H. 4 1/2" W. 4 1/2" 35000
429. ROMAN EGYPT ALEXANDRIAN BRONZE HEAD OF ZEUS SERAPIS, ca. 2nd to 3rd cent. A.D. Based on the monumental prototype attributed to the sculptor, Bryaxis, this image of the powerful god wears a modius, worn as a hat and ornamented in relief with sheaves of grain. At the rear of this piece is the head of an ancient nail, which was used to attach this decoration to its intended place. The head of the nail has a beautiful dark green patina, which looks like dark green marble. The rest of the intact nail is visible by looking into the interior of this piece. The rest of the surface has a dark patina with some areas of dark green. Mounted. H. 2 3/16" 1750
430. WOODEN SHRINE, Ptolemaic-Early Roman Period, 1st B.C. to 1st A.D. The panel shows Mut with spread wings and above an hieroglyphic inscription which translates as "Mut enfolds the pillar...and "One lives in stability, protected

- avoiding decay". These passages together with Mut protect and maintain the backbone of the deceased from decay, thus enabling him or her to live on into the afterlife. Atop the panel is a mummiform figure flanked by Uraei. Mounted. H. 14 3/4" W. 17 1/2" 7500
431. COPTIC TAPESTRY-WOVEN CLAVUS, ca. 5th-7th cent. A.D. Woven in dark and light brown and white, the central register being comprised of stylized plants and animals. Surrounded by a conventionalized border, probably a stylization of a wreath of lotus blossoms. Anthropomorphic figures set against a dark brown background terminating in a tasseled end. This is a very large Coptic fragment, whereas most Coptic textiles are very fragmentary and in poor condition. Minor holes, mounted against a piece of ancient fabric. L. 30 1/2" W. 6 1/2" 1400
432. GNOSTIC HEMATITE (MAGIC GEM), ca. 4th to 5th cent. A.D. This inscribed hematite stone depicts the jackal headed deity, Anubis, wearing a Roman style tunic and armor with a sword and a spear. The reverse of the seal is inscribed with the Greek letters beta alpha chi upsilon chi. For the owner of this ring, the image could well have evoked feelings of comfort both in the certainty of the resurrection of the dead and, on a more mundane level, in the restoration of health. Set in a later Egyptian Coptic silver setting. L. 1 7/8" 1500
433. RED JASPER SCARAB, Middle Kingdom, ca. 2052-1778 B.C. The underside of this meticulously carved scarab is decorated with two Red Crowns of Lower Egypt and two round-bottomed baskets that fill out the ends. The choice of decoration may have been influenced by the material of this scarab- brilliant red jasper. From earliest times, the Red Crown had amuletic significance, and the signs on this scarab may be interpreted as a double rebus spelling of nb(t) dsrt "Mistress of the Red Crown," a personification of the Red Crown as a powerful goddess. L. 1/2" 600
434. GREEN SCHIST SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The hieroglyphs on this scarab may be interpreted as a wish for "All goodness and truth!". L. 1/2" 300
435. BLUE-GREEN STEATITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The inscription on this beautifully carved scarab, "A favor of the royal palace," suggests that it was given to someone who enjoyed the favor of the king. L. 1/2" 1500
436. LARGE CARNELIAN SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. Sculpted naturalistically, with the beetle's legs shown tucked under its body, this scarab would have been placed with others on the chest of a mummy. Since it has not been drilled for stitching to the mummy's wrappings, this particular example must simply have been inserted among the bandages during mummification. The scarab beetle was a common symbol of regeneration for the Egyptians, and its use as a funerary amulet was meant to guarantee the resurrection of the deceased in the Afterlife. Very finely crafted overall, with fine parallel lines indicating the striations of the wing cases. L. 1 1/8" 1750
437. AMETHYST SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. Small amethyst scarab. Of very translucent amethyst, the lengthwise drill-hole is visible through the stone. The bottom of the scarab is uninscribed. L. 1/2" 450
438. A LARGER EGYPTIAN AMETHYST SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. Drilled lengthwise. Bottom uninscribed. L. 3/4" 500
439. CREAM AGATE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. Drilled lengthwise for stringing, this agate scarab is uninscribed. L. 3/4" 750
440. GREEN QUARTZITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The delicately modeled scarab has each of its legs individually modeled underneath a high doming karapace and articulated head. Very beautiful piece. Undrilled. L. 5/8" 600
441. GRAY-BROWN QUARTZITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. Rendered naturalistically, this example shows the legs of the beetle as if tucked under the body. Whereas the top has been worked to show such details as the fine striations of the wing cases, the bottom was left smooth and undecorated. The scarab beetle was a common symbol of regeneration for the Egyptians, and its use as a funerary amulet was meant to guarantee the resurrection of the deceased in the Afterlife. Since this particular example has not been drilled to permit sewing onto the wrappings of a mummy, it must simply have been inserted among the bandages during mummification. L. 7/8" 300
442. GREEN JASPER SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The hieroglyphs on this scarab are only cursorily incised but can be translated: "Live the majesty of the Horus (= the pharaoh)!" L. 7/16" 400
443. BLUE-GLAZED STEATITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 B.C. The bottom of this scarab is decorated with the image of a bird that is either in the process of alighting or about to fly. The duck had amuletic significance, as a symbol of youth and rejuvenation. L. 7/16" 250
444. GREEN-GLAZED STEATITE PLAQUE, 26th Dynasty, ca. 664-525 B.C. Drilled at either end for stringing, this green-glazed steatite plaque reads, "May the Osiris Psamtik be illumined". L. 5/8" H. 1/2" 750
- TERRACOTTAS
445. MAGNA GRAECIA TERRACOTTA HEAD OF A GODDESS, Archaic Period, late 6th to early 5th cent. B.C. With beautifully formed features including an archaic smile, this goddess has long, stylized hair with rhythmic waves that fall over her shoulders, and she wears disk earrings. H. 6" 5000
446. MAGNA GRAECIA TERRACOTTA BUST OF A GODDESS, Archaic Period, late 6th to early 5th cent. B.C. The upper torso of a seated Goddess wearing a polos on her head and holding a flower in her right hand. A nicely modeled Archaic face and smile. Mounted on a custom black metal base. H. 9 7/8" 3500
447. GREEK RHODIAN TERRACOTTA PLASTIC VESSEL IN THE SHAPE OF APHRODITE, ca. mid 6th cent. B.C. Aphrodite stands holding the material of her himation in one hand, and in the other hand, at her side, she grasps some of the material of the chiton she wears under the himation. She is wearing a polos which is actually the lip of the vessel. There is a chip from her left cheek and from her polos. There is also a crack at her waist, otherwise she is intact with no restoration. Mounted. H. 10" 4750
448. GREEK TERRACOTTA FEMALE FIGURINE, ca. mid 6th cent. B.C. Boetian stylized female with pointed bird-like facial features, vertical zigzag markings on the body, and wearing a polos with volute. H. 6" 3500
449. GREEK BOETIAN TERRACOTTA FIGURE, ca. mid 6th cent. B.C. Hand-made stylized female figure with a flat body, long neck and a mouse-like head crowned by a low polos with a large volute. This female figure is of a type common in Tanagra, modeled most commonly standing and occasionally sitting. Matte paint of black and red over a white slip. H. 6 1/2" 3500
450. GREEK TERRACOTTA SPHINX, ca. 3rd cent. B.C. The sphinx originated in Egypt, where it was probably a representation of royalty (the body of a lion with the head of a man), the idea of this mythological monster found its way to Greece from the Near East - where it had in the meantime undergone the change that made sphinxes into women. Greek mythology writes that the region of Thebes was devastated by a fabulous monster with the face and bust of a woman, the body of a lion and the wings of a bird. Guarding the road to Thebes the Sphinx would stop all travelers and pose riddles to them; those who were unable to solve her riddles she would devour. When Oedipus was asked by the Sphinx, 'which animal has four feet in the morning, two at midday and three in the evening?' He answered correctly with, 'Man, who in infancy crawls on all fours, who walks upright on two feet in maturity, and in old age supports himself with a stick.' Vanquished, the Sphinx threw herself into the sea. Greek sphinxes became a familiar motif for the decoration of ancient tombs. She is missing her wings, and both forepaws, yet this sculpture has a strong and somewhat mystical presence. Good art still carries a strong message even when it has losses. Mounted on a black base. Rare. H. 7 1/4" 3500
- CERAMICS
451. ETRUSCAN TERRACOTTA LARGE BUFF WARE STORAGE JAR, ca. mid 6th cent. B.C. Slender and graceful for its massive size, this ovoid vessel has a broad rounded shoulder, a fluted body and a flaring rim. The shoulder has one register of stamped horses and human figures. Rejoined from large fragments. A very impressive object. H. 39" 10000
452. MAGNA GRAECIA ATTIC BLACK FIGURE TREFOIL OINOCHOE, ca. 550-530 B.C. The shape of this Attic trefoil ring-collar oinochoe with youths and a horseman originally derives from Corinth. It resembles some ring-collar oinochoai by the BMN Painter (Philadelphia 4836 (ABV 227, 10) and Heidelberg 261 (ABV 227, 11), both assigned to the Class of Vatican 342, which is not a very homogeneous class). For the most part, rays above the foot are unusual on oinochoai, but they do occur on some early ring-collar oinochoai as well as late 6th century examples. This vase cannot be attributed to a painter. The style, however, is similar to a fragment of an oinochoe of shape 1 in Delphi which depicts four youths with a band of enclosed tongues above. Some paint losses, otherwise in excellent condition. H. 8" 4000
453. ATTIC BLACK-FIGURE AMPHORA FRAGMENT ATTRIBUTED TO THE SWING PAINTER, ca. 540-520 B.C. A scene with two fully armed hoplites carrying elaborate shields decorated with images of a ram and a lion. They wear crested helmets with cheek guards. A female attendant wearing an elegant peplos stands to each side. To the left is a finely modeled torso of a nude male attendant. Above the scene is an ivy or floral motif. Some restoration. Mounted on a custom black base. H. 10" W. 13 1/8" 2500
454. MAGNA GRAECIA GUTTUS WITH A MOLD OF AN AFRICAN FACE, ca. 350 B.C. Rare and crisp mold of an African face within the discus. A ribbed body and remnants of a metallic glaze throughout. Potter's mark located under the handle. Very high foot. Completely intact with no restoration. H. 5 1/4" 4000
455. MAGNA GRAECIA GNATHIAN CERAMIC LARGE SKYPHOS, ca. 4th cent. B.C. The reverse presents a vertical band with striations and dots, rosette below. The obverse bears some remaining original paint, but most of this side of the vessel has been rebuilt. The whole piece has been rejoined from large fragments with replacements. H. 12 1/4" W. 17 1/3" 2500
456. ATTIC CERAMIC SESSILE KANTHAROS, ca. 4th cent. B.C. On either side is a crosshatch pattern and laurel leaves, a circle and dot in the center of the bottom of the foot. Very small chip on rim, otherwise intact with a nice shiny glaze. H. 4 1/2" Dia to handles 6 1/2" 2250
457. MAGNA GRAECIA TEANO CERAMIC KERNOS, ca. 330-300 B.C. This rare

- shape may have been once used as a votive. Literary references and visual representations point to the possibility of these vessels being used in Eleusinian rites and in connection with Cybele and Rhea. Fruit and vegetables would be placed inside the Kotyliskoi (the small cups balanced on the base). They would be carried on the head in a procession to present at a rite. (see Containers of Classical Greece, M.G. Kanowski) The shape and size of this type of vessel varies greatly. This Kernos has five kotyliskoi, each decorated with incised lines and lines of dots. The base is decorated with both incised and dotted lines, with a vine motif as well. Dark black glaze. One kotyliskoi reattached, some restoration. H. 4 6/8" W. 6" 2000
458. MAGNA GRAECIA LARGE CALENE WARE RIBBED OINOCHOE, ca. 3rd cent. B.C. Black glaze. Rejoined from fragments with minor loss. H. 12" 1750
- BRONZES
459. LURISTAN BRONZE SWORD, ca. 1200-800 B.C. An intact example of an ancient sword, this piece has a pointed blade with two raised midribs. The blade is connected to the hilt, which is cast with areas for inlay, with two arms extended around the shoulders of the blade. Remnants of inlay in the pommel, knobbed decoration at the end. Incrustation on the blade, with dark green patina. L. 20 1/4" 2400
460. IRANIAN MARLIK BRONZE SPEAR HEAD, ca. 800 B.C. The elongated point has a central midrib surrounded by concentric banded patterns and reinforced sides. Original earthen patina with several rough spots. A more rare ornamental type. L. 18 1/2" 1100
461. LURISTAN BRONZE SPEAR HEAD, ca. 800 B.C. An unusually elongated spear blade with a slight flair at the base and a prominent flattened midrib. Green patination with spots of heavy earthen encrustation. L. 24 1/4" 900
462. LURISTAN BRONZE SPEAR HEAD, ca. 800 B.C. Elongated triangular spear head with unusually wide blade divided by the central midrib. Light green patination with earthen encrustation. L. 18 1/2" 900
463. LURISTAN BRONZE DAGGER, ca. 700 B.C. Handle open for bone or wooden inlay. Blade and handle cleaned. L. 13 1/2" 700
464. LURISTAN BRONZE DAGGER, ca. 8th cent. B.C. A small dagger with an hourglass shaped handle which is open for bone or wooden inlay. Black patina with earthen deposits. L. 10" 650
465. GREEK BRONZE SPECTACLE FIBULA, ca. 8th to 7th cent. B.C. This elaborate coil form is constructed from a single wire spiraling around. Smooth green patina. Pin missing and coil restored. L. 8 1/8" 1850
466. ROMAN RARE INSCRIBED SILVER CROSSBOW FIBULA, ca. 3rd to 4th cent. A.D. A nicely balanced fibula with Latin inscription reading, "for the shoulder." Incised decoration throughout the piece, three bulbous globules at the ends of the arms and top of the arc. Excellent condition except for the missing pin. L. 3" W. 2 1/4" 2500
467. ROMAN LARGE SILVER TRUMPET BROOCH, ca. 1st cent. A.D. A large fibula of elegant design with detailed inscribed geometric designs on the catch plate. Intact. L. 1 1/4" 800
- GLASS
468. ROMAN GLASS VESSEL, ca. 2nd cent. A.D. Pale green in color with earthen encrustation on the inner surface. Gradually tapering form with flared lip. Intact. Additional vessels available. H. 1 7/8" 100
469. ROMAN GLASS VESSEL, ca. 2nd cent. A.D. Pale green flask with earthen encrustation on inner and outer surfaces. The elongated globular body tapers into a thin flaring neck. Decorative ribbing around the body. Intact. Additional types available. H. 2 15/16" 100
470. ROMAN COBALT BLUE GLASS BRACELET, ca. 2nd to 3rd cent. A.D. The bracelet is composed of four rings forming a ribbed surface in the dark cobalt glass. Beautiful iridescent surfaces. Dia. 2 3/8" 750
471. ROMAN GLASS FLASK, ca. 3rd cent. A.D. Areas of pearly white opalescent iridescence. H. 6 1/2" 100
472. ROMAN GLASS FLASK, ca. 3rd cent. A.D. Light purple glass flask, globular body with elongated neck and flared lip. Encrustation and areas of iridescence on inner surface. H. 3 1/4" 250
473. ROMAN DOUBLE BODIED GREEN GLASS UNGUENTARIUM, ca. 4th to 5th cent. A.D. A pale green twin bodied flask encircled with delicate trailings, all intact. Gorgeous opalescent iridescence throughout. H. 4" 800
474. ROMAN DOUBLE BODIED PURPLE GLASS UNGUENTARIUM, ca. 4th to 5th cent. A.D. Deep purple with inner and outer surface encrustation. Areas of brilliant blue and green iridescence, remains of trailings. H. 4 7/8" 1000
- MISCELLANEOUS
475. HELLENISTIC GOLD FOIL FUNERARY DIADEM, ca. 300 B.C. Floral and geometric patterns rendered. L. 10 1/8" 1750
476. BYZANTINE BRONZE FULL RELIQUARY CROSS, ca. 7th to 12th cent. A.D. An image of the crucifixion on one side, and the holy mother and child on the other. Very detailed imagery. H. 3 1/8" W. 2" 1000
477. EUROPEAN OAK FIGURE OF A LADY IN WAITING, ca. 16th cent. A.D. She stands in front of a castle with a ball and chain at her feet. She holds a bible while probably being persecuted for her religious beliefs. Most likely done for a home altar commissioned by a relative. Her left hand is missing, and there are a few insignificant chips. Purchased from the Ryerson estate. The Ryersons were one of Chicago's most important couples at the beginning of the 20th century. The library at the Art Institute of Chicago is named for them. H. 17" 9500
478. EUROPEAN VERY LARGE OAK FIGURE FROM A CHRISTIAN PROCESSIONAL SCENE, ca. late 15th cent. A.D. This very large French oak figure, which once probably held a cross has his head turned to the right and arms missing. It is likely that he is depicting the suffering of Christ. H. 33" 5500
479. EUROPEAN BOXWOOD CRUCIFIXION OF CHRIST, ca. late 17th to early 18th cent. A.D. A Northern European, most likely German, depiction of the Crucifixion rendered in the best style with realistic musculature and long majestic proportions. Christ's face serenely releasing the anguish of the Crucifixion. Masterfully carved in the much sought after European Boxwood. Losses to the fingers and a few minor chips, otherwise in excellent condition. This is an excellent example of high European religious sculpture. H. 14" W. 9 1/2" 4000
480. WEST AFRICAN IVORY HORN TRUMPET, ca. early 20th cent. A.D. Carved from a complete elephant tusk, this ivory trumpet has an individually modeled mouth piece a third of the way down from the tip and is perforated for woven in adornments (now missing). L. 32 1/2" 950
481. PRE-COLUMBIAN VERACRUZ STONE HEAD OF A COATIMUNDI, Late Classic Period, ca. 550-950 A.D. Carved in a hard volcanic black stone, the coatimundi's face has an elongated snout, bead-like nose and eyes set into a triangular face. A beautiful charming rendition of the raccoon's Central American relative. L. 2 3/4" 850
482. INCA STONE CANOPA, ca. 13th to 15th cent. A.D. Probably 1470 to 1532, just prior to the Spanish conquest. Uplifted head and a long incised ruff extending below the neck, a hollowed out center in the back. L. 3 1/2" 1150
483. AMERICAN INDIAN BURNISHED POTTERY EFFIGY PIPE, ca. 15th to 18th cent. A.D. This is most likely a Southeastern Indian Woodland type effigy pipe. It has an elongated pipe form and the cup is decorated with the face of an animal. Burnished pottery. It is most similar to examples from the Arkansas area. L. 5 1/2" 800
484. AMERICAN INDIAN STEATITE PIPE, ca. 16th cent. A.D. Sculpted in a grayish green steatite, the body of the pipe terminates in an eagles head from which a square bowl rises. The eagles body has line pattern decoration and a crooked beak. Most likely a Central Plains Indian type. L. 8" 1500
485. AMERICAN INDIAN DOLL, ca. first quarter of the 20th cent. A.D. Rendered in buckskin with fringe and delicately stitched facial features and black hair. Excellent condition. Mounted on a stand. H. 13" 1500
486. AMERICAN INDIAN SOUTHWESTERN WOVEN BASKET, ca. 1910 A.D. Most likely a Pima or Apache coil form flat basket. The piece is beautifully rendered in natural dyes of red, blue, brown and yellow. It depicts alternating patterns with interlaced thin and thick lines along with checkered areas swirling towards the center. Generally very good condition with minor fraying. Dia. 16 1/4" 1800
- ASIAN ART
487. GANDHARAN PERIOD RENDITION OF THE JUDEO-CHRISTIAN EVE AND SERPENT, ca. 4th cent. A.D. This is an extremely unusual piece of Gandharan period art. It represents a nude female figure in the presence of a serpent-like reptile descending from a tree. The iconography of this piece, including the manner in which the nude female is modeled, and the circular palate form of the piece itself, holds very closely to Gandharan conventions. The theme, however, is a Judeo-Christian inspired rendition of Eve and the serpent, meaning that this piece is most likely a Gandharan period artifact that was either made by the Jews or Nestorian Christians who once lived along the Silk Road or it was inspired by Eastern contact with these people. The Gandharan period was very cosmopolitan and marked with a great blending of all the people and religions who mixed along the ancient trade routes. An extremely rare and significant piece, possibly unique. Surface abrasions and earthen encrustations. L. 5 7/8" H. 4 3/8" 15000
488. CHINESE TANG RED POTTERY HORSE AND RIDER, Tang Dynasty, ca. late 7th cent. A.D. This Mingqi, or tomb figure, depicts a stately Chinese dignitary atop a majestic and beautifully muscled horse standing foursquare. Extensive remains of pigment and very nice style. H. 12" L. 8 1/2" 2100
489. CHINESE SONG SANDSTONE LOCALITY MARKER, Song Dynasty, ca. 10th cent. A.D. This marker has a central multiple bordered register depicting a tiger. This register in turn sits atop a base which is carved out in the style of a wooden stand with four legs. H. 12" L. 15 1/2" 750
490. PERSIAN SELJUK BRONZE LAMP, ca. 12th cent. A.D. The lamp sits atop an octagonal foot which supports the body of the lamp, its long wick canal extending outward with inscribed geometrical designs. The lamp basin has a lid with a bird perched atop it and a capsule shaped handle also topped with a bird. A complex

- olive, green, brown and red patination. Excellent condition.
H. 4 3/4" L. 5 3/8" 925
491. INDIAN RED SANDSTONE HEAD OF A DEITY, ca. 12th cent. A.D. The deity, most likely a goddess, gazes forward with its hair elaborately adorned in a bejeweled topknot. General surface abrasions. H. 8" 700
492. INDIAN BRONZE FIGURE OF SEATED JAIN, ca. 16th cent. A.D. This diminutive representation of a Jain would have been a personal devotional icon. It depicts the Jain seated on a central plinth surrounded by an ornate arch. General devotional wear. H. 3" 425
493. NEPALESE SCHIST STELE OF MAHAKALA, ca. 17th cent. A.D. This small stele depicts Mahakala or the great black one, who is a fierce protective deity in Tibet and Nepal. Mahakala is one of the major Dharmapalas, or the protectors of the Buddhist law, and he is a very popular Yidam, or personal protective deity, in Nepal and Tibet. He holds a kartika hatchet and a kapala in his primary hands and stands atop vanquished foes on a mottled lotus plinth. General surface abrasions, nice Nepalese style. H. 6" 800
494. CHINESE MING BRONZE BUDDHA, ca. 1600 A.D. The Buddha sits in dhyanasana with his monks gowns carefully incised with floral patterns- a typically Ming motif. Casting flaws and remains of lacquer. It sits on a separately cast lotus plinth. H. 8 3/4" 900
495. INDIAN BRONZE STATUE OF BHUDEVI, ca. 18th cent. A.D. Bhudevi stands in tribhanga, her weight gently tilted to one side holding a lotus blossom. This goddess is one of the consorts of Vishnu and personifies the mother-goddess. This piece most likely belonged to a group where the central image of Vishnu would have been flanked by Lakshmi and Bhu Devi in mirror images. Wonderful style for such a small piece. H. 2 7/8" 275
496. LARGE THAI RATANAKOSIN LACQUER GILT STANDING BUDDHA, ca. Early 19th cent. A.D. The cleanly detailed Buddha stands with one hand in the Abhaya mudra and the other falling gently to his side. He wears a long flaring sanghati decorated with the stylized rosettes famous in the Ratanakosin style. The piece has a beautiful serene face and its body has much of the original lacquering. Feet missing. Mounted. H. 24 1/4" 1450
497. LARGE CHINESE LACQUER GILT WOODEN LOKAPALA, Qing Dynasty, ca. 18th cent. A.D. This is the Lokapala Dhritarastra- the Guardian of the East. This excellently carved crowned guardian deity stands dressed in a suit of chain armor heavily ornamented with faces and knotted sashes. He holds a pipa (balloon guitar). Guardian deities are posted at temple entrances (darpapala) or at Buddhist alters (darmapala) or stand as protectors of the four directions (lokapala). Their fearsome or threatening aspect fights evil with good in a more fearsome form. Exported to the west before 1920. Minor chips and losses. Excellent Chinese style. H. 15 1/2" 875
498. ISLAMIC PERSIAN QAJAR PILGRIMAGE MAP OF THE HOLY CITY OF KARBALA, ca. first half of the 19th cent. A.D. This hand painted linen map details the worship mosque, holy shrine and burial grave of the Shi'ite Islamic martyr Imam Hussein in Karbala. Imam Hussein was chosen as a caliph, or religious leader, destined to be the head of Islam and follow in the footsteps of the Prophet Mohammed, although his reign was cut short when, during prayer, he was brutally slain execution style in 680 A.D. Hussein, along with seventy-two other martyrs are buried in the holy city. The map illustrates symbolic as well as specific traits and characteristics of the Islamic city: date trees line the once untouchable fortress, secluding it from the outside city; and water, an important element used in cleansing and worship, also lines the outer edges of the religious temple with the intent of keeping intruders out. Aside from the larger temple, the map designates other areas of worship and prayer; areas of gathering, where arguably, Hussein and his council would advise on religious matters, as well as matters involving threats to their safety and prosperity; and areas of religious housing in the form of complexes. The map, which was written in the Persian script Farsi, leads the visitor throughout the holy city with historical highlights of Imam's rule and the Islamic cause; but the map also includes instructions for proper visitation. For example, the word "entrance" is found near the sole opening of the city, and words like "shoes room" instruct the worshipper to place their shoes in a designated area before proceeding onward. While the religious city is in Iraq, hundreds of thousands of Shiite Moslems visit the site every year on the anniversary of Hussein's death. Even during the initial stages of the war on terror, people literally walked from their homes to find refuge in the holy City of Karbala in the hopes of strengthening their faith in the teachings of Islam and finding solace in the sufferings of Imam Hussein. Generally excellent condition and color with minor staining and degradation of the iron-oxide based pigments. The map has a fabric backing. An excellent piece of Islamic cartography. Approx. W. 62" by L. 69" 3250
499. CHINESE BRONZE FIGURAL CANDLE HOLDER, ca. 19th cent. A.D. This candleholder depicts a kneeling grotesque figure, most likely a Dharmapala Buddhist deity. He kneels, supporting the candle shaft on his shoulder. Beautiful chocolate patina. H. 9 3/4" 350
500. INDIAN BENGAL BRONZE COW, ca. early 19th cent. A.D. The cow stands
- foursquare with her head gently bowed down. The piece has the wide smooth open surface typical of Bengali Hindu sculpture with incised floral patterns and traces of pigment. A nice larger example of Indian bronze work. L. 5 1/2" 475
501. HIMALAYAN SANKHA CONCH SHELL TRUMPET, ca. 19th cent. A.D. From Nepal or Tibet, this ceremonial Sankha or conch trumpet, has nicely softened features with an inscribed lotus on its surface. L. 6 1/2" 575
502. PERSIAN QAJAR TINNED COPPER TRAY, ca. mid 19th cent. A.D. Islamic trays, which can range in size, usually come with collapsible legs and are designed for displaying and serving food during meals or social gatherings. Generally, there are two design varieties for the trays: floral arrangements or people in a social setting. This particular tray is of the second type. There are two separate rings within the inner register of the tray depicting women in traditional Persian garb dancing and eating to the music being played by bearded Persian sitarists. The mood is one of enjoyment which is attributed to the Qajar period. Some trays also detail famous kings or rulers, perhaps being served, or a combination of people in a social setting with floral or geometric etchings. In this case, the outer register of the tray is adorned with typical Islamic handiwork in the way of etched buds and shapes, and the outside lip of the tray extends above its inner component. In many cases, the degree of illustration is usually proportional to the size and shape of the tray. Dia. 27 1/2" 1850
503. A LARGE THAI BANGKOK STANDING ADORNED BUDDHA, ca. Mid 19th cent. A.D. The Buddha stands with both hands in the abhaya mudra, which is a doubling of the reassurance and protection mudra. With both hands held as such, this gesture is called "the stilling of the waves" and is meant to be a gesture of calming and protection. The Buddha is elaborately decorated with star patterns on the body and ornate appliques on his torso. Most of the lacquer is original but there has been some reapplication to the face. A very substantial piece with only minor damage to the foot. Mounted. H. 35" 1750
504. LARGE NEPALESE SEATED BRONZE BUDDHA, ca. 1900 A.D. The Buddha seated in dhyanasana with his right hand in the bhumisparsamudra, where he calls the earth to witness is victory over temptation. Elegantly sculpted with the elongated limbs of the finest Nepalese style. Black to dark brown patina. H. 15 1/2" 750
505. THAI BANGKOK GILT LACQUERED BRONZE STANDING ADORNED BUDDHA, ca. Late 19th cent. A.D. The Buddha stands on a multi-tiered plinth with floral decoration at its base and each level topped with red lacquer. The Buddha stands in the classic Bangkok style position with both hands held in the abhaya mudra or "the stilling of the waves." Excellent condition, a beautiful piece. H. 22" 750
506. JAPANESE FLORAL PATTERN CLOISONNÉ PLATE, Meiji Period, ca. Late 19th cent. A.D. This plate depicts numerous flowers and a butterfly set against a brilliant blue background surrounded by a geometric pattern register. 12" Diameter 250
507. JAPANESE BIRD AND FLOWER PATTERN CLOISONNÉ PLATE, Meiji Period, ca. late 19th cent. A.D. The central image depicts a bird and flower pattern in multiple colors against a brilliant blue background, surrounded by a geometric register. 12" Diameter 250
508. A LARGE INDONESIAN BALINESE POLYCHROME WOODEN GARUDA, ca. end of the 19th cent. A.D. This very substantial piece represents the Garuda, a bird and human-like creature that is a servant of the Hindu god Vishnu. This is a superb representation of Balinese Hindu art in all of its ornate ornamentation. The Garuda stands squat in a guarding position with his eyes bulging and wings outstretched. Extensive remains of the original white, blue, red, and gold pigments. Excellent condition and a wonderful example of period Balinese art. H. 20 1/2" W. 27" 2500
509. A LARGER BRASS AND ROSEWOOD CHINESE SONA, ca. 1900 A.D. This Sona, a Chinese oboe, has a bamboo patterned body with and elaborate brass mouthpiece and widely flaring horn opening. H. 18 1/2" 325
510. A SMALLER CHINESE ROSEWOOD AND BRASS SONA, ca. 1900 A.D. This Sona, a Chinese oboe, has a bamboo patterned body with and elaborate brass mouthpiece and widely flaring horn opening. H. 13 1/2" 275
511. INDIAN BRASS KIRTIMUKHA (LION) CANDLEHOLDER, ca. 19th cent. A.D. On this candleholder, an elaborately chased and detailed Indian lion lunges forward. Its details, mane, and face meticulously carved out. The candleholder rests atop its head. Excellent condition, a wonderful example of the original foo dog, which coems from India and is a lion. H. 8" 450
512. INDIAN GOA IVORY STATUE OF THE YOUNG KRISHNA, ca. end of 19th cent. A.D. A nicely modeled image of the popular incarnation of Vishnu. Wearing a loin cloth with his weight gently tilted to one side looking onward with flowing hair. A nice example of Portuguese and Indian art mixing. Hand broken and leg repaired. H. 3 7/8" 375
513. JAPANESE MEIJI BRONZE ELEPHANT, ca. 1900 A.D. This superbly and realistically modeled elephant strides forward with its trunk raised and its mouth open. A beautiful example of the natural school of Meiji sculptures. The tip of one tusk is missing. Brown patination. H. 8 1/2" L. 10" 950

514. JAPANESE BRONZE TEMPLE BELL, Taisho Period, ca. early 20th cent. A.D. Crafted in the traditional manner, that is pounded from a single square of bronze, this bell has a beaded and ribbed pattern with a curving rim around its large bowl shaped form. Brown and black patination with a maker's stamp. Beautiful resonating sound. Dia. 9 1/4" H 6 3/8"..... 650
515. LARGE BURMESE LACQUER AND MIRROR INLAY SEATED WOODEN BUDDHA, ca. 1920 A.D. The Buddha sits in bhumispharsa mudra or the earth touching posture popular in Southeast Asia. He wears very elaborate robes with scaled patterns inlaid with white, green, and red mirrors. He sits atop a florally decorated plinth. Excellent condition. A beautiful piece of later Burmese art. H. 21"..... 950
516. JAPANESE SAMURAI FULL SUIT OF ARMOUR, Meiji-Taisho, ca. Early 20th cent. A.D. The helmet of basic three plate hineno form in citron skin lacquer (yuzukawanuri) with a lacquered five lame contoured neck guard (shikoro), temple flanges (suiji) turning back and covered in printed leather, the whole laced in yellow to orange and surmounted by a cloth and wood crest (kamon) insignia (maetate) of the Nabeshima Clan (possibly a Kyushu branch based on the lacing colours of the armour set). The face guard (menpo) with integral five lame throat guard (nodowa) laced to match the colour scheme of all other parts of the armour. The cuirass of seven gloss lacquered metal sections on front and back and displaying a star aster (kikyō) chest insignia kamon (family name unknown), the skirt of six tasset thigh guard (gessan) alternately laced in indigo and dull orange, the lamellae plates lacquered in citron skin lacquer (yuzukawanuri), as are the shoulder guards (chu sode). The armguards laced on brocade and indigo cotton, as are the greaves (haidate) with hex quilted cotton shin padding. The riding skirt (shino suneate) of oblong rows of plate lacquered lamellae alternately laced in indigo and orange. Replacement armour carrying box. The absence of some small loops and connecting horn toggles in the armguards and other small places suggests this armour was always considered decorative and for display purposes and never in fact meant for use in battle. The colour matching of all parts as well as the matching lacquer style throughout. The slightly lighter coffee colour of the helmet suggest it may have been displayed more frequently on its own and has been exposed to the sun at some point in its history. The matching and complimentary lacing (odoshi) is impressive and particularly tasteful for a post Shogunate period set of armour.. Life-size..... 4750
517. WESTERN INDIAN POLYCHROME WOODEN MARRIAGE FIGURES, British India ca. early 20th cent. A.D. These marriage figures, dressed in rich red gowns and most likely from Rajistan, face forward with their hands before them. The groom stands dressed in a tight fitting shirt with long flowing skirts and turban. The bride stands in a long flowing gown with tight fitting bodice. Excellent condition and an excellent example of Indian folk art. H. 25"..... 975
